

References / Bibliography Formatting in Engineering Reports

Below are sample references formatted according to the IEEE reference style, commonly used in engineering reports. Ensure consistency and accuracy with your chosen reference style throughout your document.

Examples of References

1. J. D. Kraus, Antenna for All Applications, 3rd ed. New York, NY, USA: McGraw-Hill, 2002.
2. S. R. Smith and J. Jones, "A Study of Microcontroller Architecture," IEEE Transactions on Computers, vol. 55, no. 7, pp. 845-853, July 2006.
3. D. S. Johnson, "Design Considerations for Wireless Sensor Networks," in Proc. 7th Int. Conf. Embedded Systems, Cambridge, UK, 2017, pp. 223-229.
4. K. Lee, "Introduction to Nanotechnology," M.S. thesis, Dept. of Electrical Eng., Stanford Univ., CA, USA, 2020.
5. World Health Organization, "Global air quality guidelines," 2021. [Online]. Available: <https://www.who.int/publications>

Important Notes

- Always use a consistent referencing style as required by your faculty or journal (e.g., IEEE, APA, Harvard).
- References should be listed in the order they appear in the report, not alphabetically.
- Ensure all in-text citations correspond to a reference in your bibliography.
- Include all required bibliographic details (authors, title, source, year, etc.).
- For online sources, provide a valid URL and access date if necessary.
