Assumptions & Methodology

- Revenue projections are based on a compound annual growth rate derived from historical data and market trends.
- Adjustments considered for seasonality, new product launches, and market expansion.
- No major economic disruptions are anticipated during the projection period.
- Sales channel mix and product line distribution expected to remain consistent with 2023 ratios.

Important Notes

- Revenue projections are estimates and actual figures may differ due to unforeseen circumstances.
- Continuous review is recommended as market conditions evolve.
- Key assumptions should be clearly documented and revisited periodically.
- This document supports planning and decision-making, but should not be the sole basis for financial commitments.
