Date: _____

Project/Equipment: _____

Version: _____

1. Purpose

This document provides a limited liability statement in association with the use and implementation of the accompanying installation guide. Please read this statement in full before proceeding with any installation or setup as described in the guide.

2. Limited Liability

The installation instructions and recommendations herein are provided in good faith and based on information available at the time of compilation. However, the authors and distributors of this guide, including all affiliated parties (collectively "the Providers"), hereby disclaim any and all liabilities for damages, losses, or expenses—direct, indirect, incidental, or consequential—that may arise from the use, implementation, or reliance on this guide.

The Providers do not warrant that the installation process described is error-free or will meet your requirements. Users assume all risks associated with installation, including but not limited to equipment damage, data loss, or personal injury. Users are responsible for ensuring that they possess the proper skills, tools, and safety measures and that all steps comply with local regulations and codes.

3. User Responsibility

It is the responsibility of the user to verify the accuracy, applicability, and suitability of the instructions before proceeding. The Providers recommend consulting with qualified professionals where appropriate.

4. Exclusions

Nothing in this statement seeks to exclude or limit liability in relation to personal injury or death resulting from proven negligence, or where otherwise not permitted by law.
